

LEGARIS VERDEJO

DID YOU KNOW THAT...?

- Our aim is to produce an aromatic wine that's nonetheless faithful to the Verdejo variety, with a voluminous palate and a slightly bitter finish typical of this grape.
- This wine is not aged in the barrel as we want to produce a young wine.
- We use cork tops and also screw caps committed to this kind of closure.
- Legaris combines wines from different vineyards: the wine's skeleton comes from the old vines of Segovia and is complemented with grapes from the vineyards of Valladolid, adding intensity and aromatic nuances that balance the wine.
- Legaris Verdejo is a young, modern wine in which we strive to bring to light all the potential of this local variety grown for the last ten centuries. Consequently, over the last few years we've produced a 100% Verdejo varietal wine.
